District Court Cases.

A record docket for this town greeted Judge F.A. Morrison when he opened District Court here on the 20th.

The first ten on the roll were small debt cases, as follows:

Schultz v. Trautman, settled out of court.

Oppertshäuser v. Davidson, settled before court.

Armbruster & Hennig vs J. McKinley. Judgment given for the plaintiff for the sum of $31.50 and costs. F.W. Lundy for the plaintiff.

Hadley v. Tindall. Case was withdrawn.

Miller & Baron v. C. Ries. Judgment was given for the plaintiff for $50.30 and costs. F.W. Lundy for the plaintiff.

Edders v. Kulak, adjourned to next court.

Tyrkalo v. Shadkoff. Judgment for plaintiff, $40 and costs. F.W. Lundy for the plaintiff.

Wolf v. Sterling, adjourned to next court.

Schellenberger v. Moldenhauer, suing for work on a well; judgment for plaintiff for $71.95 and costs. F.W. Lundy for the plaintiff.

M. Gneiting v. G. Erickson; judgment for plaintiff, $28.25 and costs.

The large debt cases were as follows:

Ducker vs. Barker—The plaintiff, a merchant at Gainford, was suing the defendant, of Gainford, for $210.20 for an account. The defendant counter claimed for $297 for work. Judgment was given for the plaintiff for $106 and costs, and the defendant's counter claim dismissed with costs. F.W. Lundy for the plaintiff.

G. Smith v. S.W.D. Frith—

Case was adjourned, to be tried at the May Sittings, in Edmonton.

Miller v. Capp—Judgment was given for the plaintiff for $149.40 and costs. F.W. Lundy appeared for the plaintiff; Mallock for the defendant.

Some Good Well.

The Stanley well-borers, who have been working at the Armbruster mill for the past two weeks, succeed in making a soft-water well which has every appearance of giving satisfaction.

After meeting with numerous difficulties, they reached a depth last week of 426 feet, and the well is said to be flowing at the rate of 300 gallons an hour for ten hours, with water 18 feet from the top. After finishing at the mill, they pulled over to Mr. Armbruster's private residence, and started working on the well on those grounds, which they re-bored, deepened and brought to new life.

This is the outfit which has been trying to induce the town councillors to permit them to drill a well for the town, on which they will give a guarantee.

Stock Going Up.

W.R. Grierson, of Winterburn, last week sold a steer at the Edmonton Stockyards which weighed 1410 pounds and brought $98.70 at 7c a pound.

The same day a carload of whitefaces arrived, the best received this year, and brought 63c a pound.

Dealers at the Yards believe the anticipated rise in cattle prices is about to begin.

A rumour having gained circulation that one worthy representative in the Legislature had voted with the 7 against the strong beer petition, it is only right to point out that Mr. Gendron did not do this—he was not present in the House when the vote was taken.

A meeting of Stony Plain Rifle Club is called for Saturday evening next March 31, at the Royal Parlors. The meeting is to reorganize for the coming season, and other important matters will be discussed.

Friday, March 30, is the last day for receiving tenders for carrying the mail from the station to the Postoffice six times a week.

Farmers who have complained of the high price of implements will be pleased to hear a factory to manufacture these has been opened at Medicine Hat.

It is semi-officially stated, but the rumor lacks confirmation; that the Councilors of Inga M. D. will meet next week, probably April 6th. Place of meeting not as yet divulged.

A big box social and dance is billed to take place in Stony on the evening of Friday, April 13, under the auspices of the U. F. A. Local. This should be well attended, as it is some time since one of these popular events has taken place locally.

Mr. Geo. McMillan, manager at the local Demonstration Farm, has just received a consignment of feeder steers from the Farm at Athabasca Landing. This is a young bunch, averaging about 1250 pounds, and much interest will be taken in the way these are fed and prepared for the market.

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian Spring weather—one day mild and bright, the next raw and blustery—is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is often over-heated and badly ventilated. He catches cold, his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, soothe teething or erupting sores, simple fever, colic or any other of the many minor ills of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canada's Forest Fire Plague

Four thousand forest fires left Canada millions of dollars poorer last year and, says the Canadian Forestry Association, unless every care is exercised by campers, fishermen, settlers and others, 1923 will show a loss equally as great. Nine-tenths of all forest fires in Canada occur through human acts which are incidental to land clearing, fishing and hunting. Very few fires are deliberately set.

CATARRAH DEAFNESS

Is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrh of the middle ear is caused by the influence of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running nose, impaired hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surface of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring nature to its normal condition.

Empress of Russia Picks Up Message Over 4,800 Miles

Something new in wireless records was established by the Empress of Russia during her passage across the Pacific. The liner was forging across the Pacific on meridian day, Chief Wireless Operator William Adams, who was listening in heard the call of the Leafdale Station, an important radio plant located near Oxford, England, and received a number of new items from the opposite side of the world.

The Leafdale Station was approximately 4,800 miles away and the messages were picked up clearly, although there had been considerable interruption. "The other waves evidently carried the news over the North Pole as we were on the opposite side of the world," remarked Capt. Houston, commander of the liner, in discussing the long distance wireless message.

Had Kidney Trouble

and Found Relief

That's Why Clovisse Bouchard Speaks so Highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills

She Suffered with Pains in her Kidneys and after taking Dodd's Kidney Pills her Pains Disappeared. Mistassini, Que.—(Special).—"I was not able to work for the pains in my back," states Madame Clovisse Bouchard, a well-known resident here. "I took a few boxes and was able to start work again. After continuing taking the pills, my pains have completely disappeared."

It is statements like the above that have made Dodd's Kidney Pills a household remedy throughout Canada. The satisfaction Dodd's Kidney Pills are giving as a remedy for kidney troubles is shown by the large number of people who keep them always at hand. They have learned that the proper way to avoid serious forms of kidney disease, such as rheumatism, diabetes, dropsy and heart disease, is to correct the early symptoms of kidney trouble.

Lumbering In Quebec

Thirty Thousand Lumberjacks Are Working In Woods

Activity now vigorous in the lumber camps is said to have reached the record of the year in 1920 and the production this year is expected to be normal as compared with the calm of last year.

The estimation of the Department of Lands and Forests for Quebec is that between 28,000 to 30,000 lumberjacks are now in the camps. All the regions of the province are affected by this renewal of work in the lumber camps.

The price of saw wood and pulp wood is said to be stabilizing, while its delivery is being facilitated by the return of thousands of cars from the west, which had been used for shipment of grain to the United States, which had been detained in the United States have also returned and the situation is said to be most promising for the spring.

Critical Period Over

Racial Antimosity is Declining, Thinks Viceroy of India

The Viceroy of India, Lord Reading, believes that racial antimosity in India has begun to decline, and that a closer co-operation in advancing the work of reform is now to be expected. He expressed these views at a recent dinner of the European Association at Calcutta.

"We have gone through some anxious times," he continued, "but the worst of the critical period now is over. There have been days of great strain, but we pursued our path fully convinced that it was right to continue to administer the law, to insist upon order whilst at the same time, having regard to the legitimate susceptibilities of Indians, and also to our responsibilities to His Majesty's Government and the British Parliament at home."

"I know not what the future may bring. I cannot picture to myself what the end will be when I leave India. But if it is then felt here that I have contributed to secure, by however small a step, the peace and prosperity of India, I shall feel sufficiently rewarded."

Britain's Standing Army

British Forces Inadequate to Cope With Emergencies

Speaking in the British House of Commons on the army estimates, Lieut.-Col. W. A. Guinness, War Office Under-Secretary, said the present army establishment was sufficient to deal with certain standing risks of the Empire in Asia and elsewhere, if the risks materialized simultaneously. Great Britain was not now in position to deal with them as she would eventually deal with such a situation.

Great Britain for the moment was exceptionally weak, Colonel Guinness said, owing to the smallness of her reserve force which, however, it was intended to augment directly by enlisting 10,000 war-trained men in Class B.

More Intensive Farming Is Suggested As One Solution Of Western Agricultural Problem

Mr. Andrew T. Drummond, Kingston, Ont., in an article in the Montreal Times holds that Western Canada, and the farmers themselves, would be benefited in many ways if the farmers had less land, but cultivated it better, and increased the production per acre. The same idea of cultivating smaller farms has been urged by Mr. Robert Forke, the new Progressive leader. Mr. Drummond notes that the average yield of wheat per acre in the west was better than usual this year, but he says:

"There has been something seriously wrong; for instance, Scotland for ten years gave an average production of 25 bushels, and those who can recall the pioneer days of Minnesota and Manitoba, know that a farmer there was then somewhat sensitive over having to admit that he had threshed less than forty bushels of No. One Hard wheat to the acre."

"Whatsoever allowance must be made for variations in the soil, and over the vast areas of the three provinces and in places for possible wind storms and even frosts, the facts remain that not only has production, in the course of years, grown less and less, but the quality of the grain has so deteriorated that No. One Hard is becoming excessively scarce, and No. One Northern, the next grade, barely embraces two-thirds of the inspected crop. If the average production of wheat this year had been thirty bushels to the acre, the three provinces should have yielded, in wheat alone, 614,000,000 bushels, instead of the expected 371,900,000. Try to picture what a difference this would have made not only to the farmers, but to the railways there, and to the many hundreds of merchants in the small towns upon these railways; and add to this production a further increase of over 150,000,000 bushels of barley, rice and flax from the 1,500,000 acres devoted to these grains this year."

"The average wheat product has gone as low as fifteen bushels. Can anything be said in mitigation of this, if it is true that forty per cent. of the acreage under cultivation on these prairies is merely stubble land into which in the spring the grain has been simply harrowed or drilled? There is no getting over the facts that the land must be properly cultivated to give good returns, and that, in addition, whatever is taken out of the soil by successive crops must be returned to it, or the crops will deteriorate. The intensive farming in France, and, to perhaps a less degree, in England and Scotland, results in large crops per acre. In the case of this country, the difficulties are: (1) the large size of the farms, and the want of money and help, in the case of most settlers, to cultivate even one-half of this land; (2) the lack of concentration of the population; (3) the eagerness of the settler to take the shortest cut to obtain a crop, irrespective of results; and (4) the want of the application of fertilizers, and their excessive cost."

"The land will, at the average of years, give to the farmer more than a living, if he treats it fairly by proper cultivation and by keeping up the fertility. When however, some of these farmers live in the towns and villages and not on the farms, when so many do not plough their land, but plant on the stubble, and then artificial and natural fertilizers are seldom used, no doubt largely on account of their cost in the one case, and their scarcity in the other, what can be expected but that results per acre must grow less and less, and that the quality will also deteriorate. The remedies are in part in the hands of the farmer, and their organization, in part, of the government. With hardy manure becoming relatively scarce, and freight rates on artificial manures forming such a heavy addition to their large original cost and large percentages of included material of no direct advantage to the land, the different governments must take immediate steps to promote the production of concentrates on which the freight rates would be small, and which the farmer himself could, under proper instructions, prepare for application on his land."

New Variety of Wheat

Manitoba Professor Meale With Success in Experimental Work

Kanred wheat is a new variety of winter wheat which has been developed in Kansas; it proved its superiority and is being grown with advantage now not only in Kansas but in the surrounding winter wheat states. This new wheat, which has an average yield about three bushels greater than that of other varieties that have been grown, is the result of work done a few years ago by Mr. H. P. Roberts, now Assistant Professor of Botany in Manitoba University. In the summer of 1906, when Mr. Roberts was biologist at the Kansas Agricultural Experimental Station, he selected 554 individual heads from a field of Crimean wheat, a variety which had been previously introduced from Russia. The kernels of each head were planted in separate rows, alternating with rows of Turkey Red wheat, so that comparison could be made. In six years' time, by eliminating the rows with inferior samples, the original 554 rows were reduced to 88, the seed from which was turned over to the Agronomy Department for further tests. The result, was the selection in 1911 of one of the most promising strains, and the yield and general qualities of this new wheat have proven very satisfactory.

During the past season about two million acres of Kanred wheat were harvested, and the increased yield, at three bushels to the acre, is estimated at 6,000,000 bushels. The benefit to Kansas farmers to date in dollars and cents from the development of Kanred wheat has been estimated at $10,000,000.

Kanred's superiority in quality is not so much on account of any one feature as of a variety of advantages. It ripens slightly earlier than other varieties, has a stiffer straw, so that it stands up better in rainy seasons, resists the cold better, and is practically immune from black stem rust and orange leaf rust.

Professor Roberts has been for the past four years a member of the teaching staff of Manitoba University. He is carrying out experiments in plant breeding. He is trying to improve fruit trees, to secure a grape suitable for Manitoba by crossing the native grape with suitable varieties; and is particularly interested in blueberry culture, which has made great strides in New York State, where a cultivated berry of great size and improved flavor is being grown. There is thus a possibility that Prof. Roberts will do Canada a service comparable to that which he has already rendered Kansas.

The ancient Egyptians, it is said, were forbidden to eat the onion, garlic and leeks. According to the priests of Pelusium, the onion was banished because it caused a "flow of tears, hunger and thirst; hence was banished out of place by laws and during religious ceremonies."

Trade With the Orient

Trade With India Will be Fostered by Department of Trade and Commerce

The development of trade with the Orient is receiving much attention at the hands of the Department of Trade and Commerce. Canada has been slow to appreciate the opportunities that India affords, but an awakening in this respect has taken place. Before the outbreak of war India imported $600,000,000 worth of commodities a year, of which Canada sent not much more than $50,000 worth. Last year her imports were $800,000,000 of which Canada sent $1,125,000, and it is now expected that there will be a further increase to between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 this year.

"YOUR TEETH"

DECAY OF WOMEN'S TEETH

By H. A. Proctor McGee, M.D., D.D.S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

At least sixty per cent. of a dentist's patients are women. The other forty per cent. are men and children. There are two reasons for this: one is that women more frequently consult the dentist because they are more careful of their health and appearance and the other is that women's teeth actually are more subject to decay than men's.

The teeth of women are of the same structure as are the teeth of men and are expected to perform the same work but they usually do not get the chance because women do not eat foods that require as much vigorous chewing as those that men select.

One of the duties of the great majority of women is either to prepare or supervise the preparation of food for the household. The element of surprise in what the next meal has in store is absent and the inhalation of the odors of cooking food takes what little "edge" there is left to the appetite. In addition, the preparation of food requires more or less frequent tasting of savory mixtures.

Women as a rule are satisfied to eat the softer and more highly flavored foods and sweetened desserts. As a result their teeth do not get the vigorous exercise that men's teeth do.

This lack of vigorous chewing allows the much of the saliva to stick to the teeth and the debris of soft food packs between and around the teeth.

Unless the teeth are most carefully cleansed with the brush at least twice each day and in addition are given a prophylactic treatment by the dentist occasionally, food and mucus will decompose and form an ideal soil for the growth of the bacteria of decay.

Where there is decomposition of food, organic acids are formed that attack the enamel of the teeth and make the work of the bacteria very easy. As the teeth decay, the packing of food becomes more extensive and the gums are inflamed and bleed easily.

All inflammation of the gums tends toward the establishment of that greatest of all enemies of the teeth—pyorrhea.

People care little how you get your money. They are interested in the way you spend it.

Homesteading Is Still A Live And Important Factor In Western Land Settlement

Prospective Land Buyers

Experienced Farmers With Plenty of Capital Coming to Canada From U.S.

(By G. C. Porter of Winnipeg)

Chicago, Ill.—"There is a decidedly optimistic spirit ruling among the investors on this side of the line engaged in sending prospective settlers and land buyers to Canada. I have found it general and they quote figures that in their judgment justifies their view."

For instance, J. N. K. Macallister, in charge of the natural resources department of the Canadian Pacific at St. Paul, told me that: "There is a substantial revival of interest among people on the south side of the line concerning Canadian farm lands. My inquiries up to Jan. 20 are actually in excess of those for the entire previous year. I should say we will do a very considerable business in the sale of western prairie farms this year, in fact, we are doing it right now with the prospects better than for many years. Our prospects have money to invest and will investigate Canadian farm propositions before they decide on a location."

DeWitt Foster, Superintendent of the natural resources department of the National Railways in the United States, is equally confident. He said his inquiries from people desiring to go north will average sixty a day by mail and nearly as many, at this season of the year, in personal calls. He has a mass of data tabulated and filed by which he is able to very accurately appraise the situation. His estimate is most complete. For instance, he finds that in earlier years the average man who went to Canada, through and in touch with his company, had cash capital of six thousand dollars. Some, of course, had available other resources, but where these prospects could be induced to disclose their cash, it averaged that amount, many having as much as twenty-five thousand. In later years his records show that the average has fallen to about four thousand cash for each man. By the same system of deduction Mr. Foster believes the average man who locates north of the line acquires to begin with one-half section. The large investor who buys in sections brings up the average of the homesteaders' quarter section. Foster is a keen student of immigration problems and is in demand as a speaker at many assemblies in the States.

The Trumpster Swan

The Trumpster Swan, believed to be extinct as it had not been seen for nearly ten years, has lately been reported as wintering on a small lake in British Columbia. The Parks Branch of the Department of the Interior was notified that a little flock of nineteen had been seen there, and the lake vicinity was at once declared a bird sanctuary, and a warden appointed to patrol it.

From 1914 to 1918, the Pasture Institute in France produced 6,000,000 doses of serum for that country.

Those who glibly talk about the disappearance of free land in Western Canada and discuss homesteading as a phase of land settlement that has passed; received a most absolute and stunning contradiction when figures of homestead entries covering the year 1922 in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia were published. The number of homestead filings in Canada last year shows an increase of approximately forty per cent. over that of 1921, and the twelve month stands out in this respect as the most important one since the war. The figures indicate very clearly that, whilst the tide which swept over Western Canada a decade ago in search of free land has very considerably abated and will probably never attain the same flood again, there is still land to be secured in the prairie provinces for a ample filing fee and that land-hunters men from every conceivable part of the globe are discovering it.

That homesteading is still a live and important factor in Western Canadian land settlement is evidenced in the fact that this means the settlement in 1922 for the settlement in that area of more than a million additional acres. A homestead consists of 160 acres. The total number of entries in the year was 7,548 as against 5,349 in 1921. This means the settlement in the twelve months of 1,175,340 acres by this means alone. Of the year's filings, 1,488 were in Manitoba, 2,735 in Saskatchewan, 2,928 in Alberta, and 200 in British Columbia. The number of entries practically doubled in Manitoba and British Columbia, and increased by over 60 per cent. in Saskatchewan.

Among Western Canada's new citizens acquired by this means in 1922, were men from practically every part of the globe, in all some forty countries being represented in the 7,549 entries. Leading among the entrants were Canadians from other provinces who accounted for 2,192 entries; United States citizens jumped from the third place they had held the year previous to second with 1,506 filings. Entrants from the British Isles dropped from second place to third with a contribution of 1,055 homesteaders, nearly three-quarters of whom were from England. Austro-Hungarians filings numbered 172, Sweden 172, Russians 168, and Norwegians 159. There were 65 Poles, 63 French, 37 Belgians, 22 Italians and 11 Swis.

The year 1922 as regards homesteading filings is, in the circumstances, very gratifying. There is, of course, no question as to the diminishing supply of western homestead lands. The vast Crown possessions, though seemingly illimitable, are far from inexhaustible. Since the year 1900 there have been more than half a million homestead filings representing the settlement of not far short of 100,000,000 acres by this system. United States citizens have accounted for about thirty per cent. of this settlement and settlers from the British Isles for twenty per cent. Filings came to a pinnacle in 1911 when 41,479 were recorded in Western Canada.

The homesteaders filed on a decade ago are selling today at prices sometimes as high or higher than $100 per acre, and the settler who ten years ago neglected an opportunity to file must pay that price for the land he could then have secured for a ten-dollar filing fee. Every year increasing settlement, greater cultivation, and augmented production are setting up the price of Western Canadian lands as Government figures testify, and whilst comparatively the same opportunities exist today in the case of privately held lands, they are not always going to prevail. Exhaustion may yet be a long way off, but it can be definitely anticipated.

Fish With Pick and Shovel

Did you ever hear of the humpback, which breathes only air and buries itself for months until the earth is dry and sandy overhead?

This fish is dug with a pick and shovel where there has been no water for eighteen months, and whose location is known by a small hole the fish leaves to breathe through. They grow up to three feet long, and store fat on their tails for keeping them fast through the long dry seasons.

G. W. Chapin, locomotive foreman of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Strassbourg, Saskatchewan, has, on different occasions, won prizes for the best kept garden along the railway line in that section of the country. The above is a photograph of part of the garden taken last summer.

"What is it, Bill?" the ranch owner demanded.
Santry tramped back into the room, laughing in a shameless sort of way. "They done us, Gordon! They done us!" "By the great horned toad, they done us!" They checked a bunch of shells into the hot coals stove, and sneaked out the side door while we was shooing into the front room. My cracker, that beats."

"That's what they did," spoke up Nelson, as well as his cramped tongue would permit, being now free of the cage. "They gagged us first, so's we couldn't sing out; then they filled up the stove an' beat it."

What had promised to be a tragedy had proved a farce, and Wade smiled a little foolishly.
"The joke's on us, I guess, boys," he admitted. "But we've got the ranch back at our rate. How are you feeling, Ed, pretty stiff and sore?" "My Gawd, yes—awful!"

"Me, too," declared Tom Parrish, the second of the victims; and the third man arose roundly that he would not regain the full use of his legs before Christmas.

"Well, you're lucky at that," was Santry's dry comment. "All that avarice you gettin' shot up in that corner where you was."

"From the looks of it," Santry was muttering some of 'em pretty deep; but nobody was killed, I reckon. I hope Moran was the worst hurt, durn him!"

"He'll keep," Wade said grudgingly. "We've not done with him yet, Bill. We've only just begun."

CHAPTER X.
The Senator Gets Busy
It was daylight when the routed posse, with Race Moran in the lead, his left arm tied up in a bloodstained handkerchief, rode into Crawling Water. A bullet had pierced the fleshy part of the agent's wrist, a trifling wound, but one which gave him more pain than he might have suffered from a serious injury. None of the members of the posse had been dangerously wounded; indeed, they had suffered more in the scuffle than in the flesh; but there had been a number of minor casualties amongst the men, which made a whole lot of bloody display to arouse the little town to active curiosity.

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not write but for the fact that I have taken it before each of my children was born and afterwards, and find it a great help. Before my first baby was born I had troubles of breath and ringing in my ears. I felt as if I would never pull through. One day a friend of my husband told him what the Vegetable Compound had done for his wife and advised him to take a bottle home for me. After the fourth bottle I was a different woman. I have four children now, and I always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends." Mrs. FRED H. BARRIS, John St., Trenton, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, such as I was, during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, and may work to every respect effectively as nature intended. Thousands of women testify to this fact.

however, the fugitives kept grudgingly silent, so that curiosity was able to feed only on speculations as to Wade's temper, and the fact that he had brought about Santry's release from jail. The story of that achievement had been bruited about Crawling Water since midnight, together with the probability that the posse would be invoked to punish the ranchman for his defiance of it. Popular sentiment was running high over the likelihood of such a step being taken, and the members of the posse were the targets of many hostile glances from the townspeople. At least two-thirds of the citizens were strongly in favor of Wade, but before they took active steps in his behalf they waited for the return of a horseman, who had hurried out to the ranch to learn at first hand exactly what had happened there.

Meanwhile Moran, in an ugly mood, had awakened the Senator from the troubled sleep which had come to him after such wakeful toils. He lay in bed, with his head on a pillow, and his hands clasped under his chin, and he was looking at the ceiling with a thoughtful expression. He had no orders to jump the ranch, he told himself. He had no orders to jump the ranch, he told himself.

"You want too far, Race—you want too far," he burst out angrily at last. "You had no orders to jump the ranch, I told you."

"Well, nothing seemed to reach my case, I just kept getting weaker. Really, I don't think I could have worked much longer if it had not been for Tanlae. It has been worth more than all the money to me. My all-fired body has been built up until I feel like an entirely different man, and an enjoying splendid health."

Rehill arose and walked up and down the room in thought, his slippered feet shuffling over the floor, showing now and then a glimpse of his hairy legs as the swirl of his bathrobe fluttered about. A cloud of fragrant smoke from his cigar trailed him as he walked, and from the way he chewed on the tobacco his conferees in the Senate could have guessed that he was leading up to one of his Czar-like pronouncements. Presently he stopped moving and twisted the cigar in his mouth, and his fumes would be out of his eyes, as his glance focused on Moran.

"Where's the rest of your outfit, this 'new head' I say to you. I'm going to send a telegram to the Department of the Interior which will bring a troop of cavalry down here from Fort MacKenzie. You must go slow from now on, and let the authorities settle the whole matter."

"The agent sat up alertly, as his employer wagging a ponderous forefinger impressively, proceeded.
"You were not on the ranch for the purpose of jumping it at all. Mind that now! You and I stand for the majesty of the law in this lawless country. Moran's eyes began to twinkle at this, but he said nothing. Then you and Sheriff Thomas went out to the ranch, you and your men, and you one for Santry, as the accessory, and one for Wade, as the principal, in the shooting. Yes, I know what you are going to say; but I must have my own back now, since Wade has proved himself to be a lawbreaker, I'm not going to protect him."

"Now, you're talking!" exclaimed Moran, delighted at the prospect of what such a course would start going. "I'll have the rest of the warrants fixed up with Thomas," the Senator continued. "Now, follow me carefully. Thomas arrested Santry at the ranch, and then left you, as his deputy, to serve the other warrant on Wade when he came home. It was because of his knowledge of what was in store for him that Wade, after getting Santry out of jail, attacked you and your men, and it was in defense of the law that you returned their fire. It will all work out very smoothly, if you men from the other side and be to our great advantage."

Moran looked at his employer in admiration, as the latter concluded and turned toward his writing table.

"Senator," the agent declared, as Rehill took up his fountain pen and began to write on a telegraph form, "you never should have started in Denver. If you'd been born in little New York, you'd be in the White House now. From this minute on I am going to carry this whole valley in your vestpockets."

"You take this over and put it on the wire right away, Race. It's to the Secretary of the Interior and my signature on it should get immediate attention." Senator Rehill handed over the telegraph form he had filled out.

"But what about State rights in this business?" Moran asked, anxiously.

Daniel McPhadden, a prominent contractor, of the Richmond Court Apartments, Saskatoon, Sask., is still another who has realized the fact that Tanlae "makes you eat better, sleep better, feel better and work better." Mr. McPhadden has been identified with the people of Saskatoon for eighteen years. He is one of the founders of the Saskatoon Co-operative Society, Ltd., and his standing and influence are too well known to require further comment. In relating his experience with Tanlae, Mr. McPhadden said:

"I have found Tanlae to be a remarkable medicine and tonic. For a number of years I had been bothered with intestinal trouble and was in a general run-down condition. I was under weight, couldn't sleep well at night, and felt tired and worn-out all the time."

"Will they send Government troops in here on your say so?"
The Senator waved his hand in dismissal of the objection.

"I'll have Thomas wire the Governor and the situation is beyond my control." This town is miles from nowhere, and there's no militia within fifty miles. The State will be glad enough to save the expense, especially with the soldiers close by at Fort MacKenzie. Besides, you know, although Wade's ranch is inside the State, a good deal of his land is Government land, or was until he died on it."

When Moran had left the room in a much easier frame of mind than he came into it, the Senator sat down heavily on the bed. He was puffing at his cigar and thinking intently, when he caught sight of the white, startled face of his daughter in the mirror of the bureau across the room. Whirling about, he found her standing in the doorway behind him. Rehill had never before been physically conscious of the fact that he had a spine, but in that moment of discovery a great heap of sin came down his back, and her expression told him that she had read a good deal of his conversation with Moran. The most precious thing to him in life was the respect of his child; more precious even, he knew, than his financial security for which he fought; and in her eyes now he saw that he was face to face with a greater battle than he had ever waged.

Influence of the Planets

Have the Stars Any Effect on Human Life?

Long ago it was thought that stars had a great effect on us, and belief in astrology grew into a cult called astrology.

Every action of our lives was attributed to the influence of the planets. A child was born "under" such and such a star, while other stars had good or less important powers over him, too, and by the position of these stars would his every action be regulated.

Later on we discovered that the earth was, after all, only a star, and not a very important one, and that it was not the centre of the universe as we had formerly thought. Yet there may be something in astrology. The moon, we know, affects our sea (ides, and probably also creates atmospheric tides. Pressure of atmosphere decidedly does affect us, mentally and bodily, and therefore the old ideas of the moon's affecting us may not be so wrong as we once thought.

Plan Of Senate Reform Submitted To Commons By Minister Of Finance

Ottawa.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, submitted to the House of Commons a scheme of Senate reforms. In brief, his scheme—as he emphasized that he was not speaking for the Government, but expressing a personal view—provided for a nominated Senate as follows:—

(1)—One half nominated (as the Senate is now nominated) by the Dominion Government and to be known as Dominion Senators.

(2)—One half nominated by the Provincial governments and to be known as Provincial Senators.

The nominations would be for a period of ten years, with eligibility for a second term.

At eighty years of age Senators would be retiring. Mr. Fielding would not disturb existing Senators, but would give them the right to retire at 75 on a pension of two-thirds of their present indemnity.

He was opposed to a popularly elected upper House, fearing it would become a rival of the House of Commons.

Previously, J. J. Denis, Liberal member for Joliette, presented a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to permit of a popularly elected Senate. Mr. Denis, drawing parallels with the United States and other countries, declared that the Canadian method of appointing a Senate was an obsolete system of the feudal house.

Comparing Canada with other parts of the British Empire, Mr. Denis said Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and Ireland all had elective Senates. Thus, Canada was the only one of the five great British Dominions which had not an elective Senate. Austria, Belgium, France and Czechoslovakia all had an elective system, although the French system was indirect. The French system, he thought, was the best in the world.

"Our system is an absolutely obsolete system of the Middle Ages and should not be maintained any longer," he said, Progressives voting approval.

Discuss Possibility Of Shipping Alberta Coal To Eastern Provinces

The present system was one of compulsion; there was great competition in the grain trade. If he wanted to ship the U.F.M. the worst luck possible, he said, he would urge it to support the wheat board.

Frank Baker, of the Farmers' Advocate, declared that the 1919 board was not the huge success some thought it was. If a compulsory board were not a success as a temporary measure, it would have a bad effect on the co-operative plan it was hoped subsequently to evolve. He suggested that a Mr. Saville, who had made a great success in placing the raisin trade upon its feet in a co-operative way in the West, should be invited by the Manitoba Government to come here and investigate with a view to recommending an efficient system of marketing.

did not see how any farmer in the West could carry on if he received only 75 per cent, or less, of the value of his wheat.

Mr. Joseph Trimble, President of the High Bluff local of the U.F.M., declared that he was opposed to the wheat board for many of the same reasons as advanced by Mr. Muir. There were no financial arrangements that could be worked out, he said, under the proposed plan. Without control of transport, terminals and flour, it was a poor, weak and lame attempt to handle the wheat crop of this country. He added: "I feel that the western provinces have harvests larger than ours and have not the railway facilities that we have, and owing to the distances they have to haul they can't market it so early in the fall as we do. But when we market 12 per cent. of our crop before Saskatchewan ever gets in at all, and only 50 or 55 per cent. of our crop is marketed in the first two months of the season, we would be sacrificing an awful lot to the western provinces in going in for this."

Mr. Mackenzie felt that these expressions should have been brought out long ago. He voted for a wheat board at the last U.F.M. convention, being fairly well satisfied with the operations of the 1919 board. He recalled that Mr. Rice-Jones, of the United Grain Growers Limited, had declared that the wheat board was the chairmanship of a 1923 board, giving as a reason, that he did not know of any other board. Premier Bracken, he also recalled, had pointed out that Manitoba farmers stood to lose in the present plan.

Mr. W. Hyde and Mr. Thomas Kilson both expressed the view that a wheat board, compulsory or otherwise, was not the proper system for handling the wheat crop. Both believed the present system the best, with a greater degree of co-operation among the farmers such as could be brought about. W. G. Hall endorsed these views and strongly opposed the sacrifice of Manitoba's advantages and the premiums gained through early harvest and early marketing.

Chairman Grob declared that he had talked with Premier Bracken personally and that the premier was in favor of the wheat board. When one considered the price of Manitoba land, we should not give any bouquets to Saskatchewan and Alberta. It would be impossible to get any ready-made tax fall the wheat board plan were put through.

Mr. Tidbury spoke briefly in support of the wheat board, pointing out the same time the disadvantage to Manitoba in the loss of premiums. He was dissatisfied with present methods, prices and grading. Mr. Trimble made a swift rejoinder. He said in reply: "We are not in a position to see an acre land which takes most intensive cultivation? Are we not planting cereals in a position to equal with Saskatchewan $10 an acre land, with no noxious weeds? I think that is worth thinking about. If there is any premium coming, we were the pioneers—or our fathers—my father was one of the first to come to the West. We were the trail-blazers; and if there is anything coming to this western country it is to be shared with them. A Cregar had spoken against the board at the convention in Brandon.

Thomas Kilson, who spoke in opposition to the board. Unless the board could handle over all profits without waiting a year to do it, the idea was no good at all. Mr. Muir opposed Mr. Tidbury's statement that Dawson.—The spring rush is on in the Yukon. The overland trail from White Horse to Dawson and Mayo with horse and dog teams and hikers bound northward. The White Pass & Yukon Route is operating full blast repairing the upper Yukon river blast.

A ten-ton caterpillar tractor with three trailers hauling five tons of freight each has started over the trail from White Horse for Mayo, a distance of 500 miles, the first journey of its kind ever undertaken over Yukon snow.

So many individual silver claims are producing at Keno Hill in addition to two big companies, that every horse, dog team, automobile sleigh and caterpillar in the district has been crowded into service, rushing ore to Mayo Landing before the snow disappears. It is expected that 8,000 tons will be transported before April 1.

Eruption Forms Island

Salmon, Cochin China.—A French survey ship which has arrived here reports that after the volcano eruption March 2 the island sighted a new circular island four hundred metres in diameter and 35 metres in the South China Sea in latitude 10 degrees north and longitude 108.59 east.

Will Ban Heavy Weaves

Christiansburg, Norway.—The "Odelling," by a vote of 53 to 53 adopted a bill for the prohibition of heavy weaves in Norway. It is expected that the bill will also obtain a majority in the Landsting, the other session of the Storting.

Ottawa.—It might be laid down as an axiom," said Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, giving evidence before the Senate Fuel Committee, that Canada should not be dependent on a neighboring state, no matter how friendly, for her coal supply.

The United States had been good to Canada in supplying us with coal but an emergency might arise at any time which would make it impossible for that country to continue. Therefore it became essential to solve the problem within Canada.

"It looks fairly hopeful," said Sir Henry when questioned on the possibility of bringing Alberta coal to Ontario and Quebec and selling it in competition with the American product. But railway rates must not be so low as to "cut the throat of the railway."

Canada had coal. The question was one of transportation.

"First," proceeded Sir Henry, "we must see if we can establish such rates as will enable our own coal to be sold in Ontario and Quebec in competition with foreign coal without impairing the revenues of the railway."

"Where does your system get its coal supply in Western Canada?" Sir Henry was asked.

"From the Alberta field," he replied.

Alberta coal was used on the Canadian National Railways as far east as Winnipeg. He thought Nova Scotia coal would have a tendency to take advantage of the water route.

Sir Henry was asked if it would not be difficult to raise the rate on coal supposing it was reduced temporarily to meet an emergency. He replied that it might be difficult but there was no reason why it should not be done. If a low rate had accomplished its purpose it would go on. There was no reason why the granting of a reduced rate on coal should be followed by reductions on other commodities.

Activity In Building

Official Statistics Show Revival in Building Trade

Ottawa.—The value of buildings authorized throughout Canada during February was considerably higher than for the month of January, and also higher than for February of last year. According to official statistics, 56 cities making returns issued permits during February valued at $1,741,478, compared with $2,705,255 in January, and with $1,816,000 in February, 1918. The largest percentage increase occurred in Saskatchewan where permits were 382.1 per cent. greater than in the corresponding month last year.

Of the larger cities, Toronto, Ottawa, Calgary, Victoria, and Vancouver showed larger totals, while Montreal and Winnipeg recorded declines.

The Briquetting Experiments

Senator Claims that Bientaft Tests Are Diametric Failure

Ottawa.—The expenditure of $900,000 on the Bientaft experiments in Briquetting, Sask., of which one-half was paid by the Dominion Government and a quarter each by Manitoba and Saskatchewan, was brought up in the Senate by Senator Casgrain. He felt that a committee to investigate this expenditure should be appointed. He also recommended that efforts be made to utilize the plant for some other purpose. The experiments had been a hopeless failure, he said.

Senator Turf recommended that a further small expenditure be made to complete the experiments.

New Assessment for Winnipeg

Winnipeg.—Without taking the evidence of real estate interests and others fighting for a lower assessment, the Board of Valuation and Revision delivered a judgment calling for a new assessment for the whole of the city. Revision of the assessment rolls will have to be started immediately, as the taxes for 1923 are due on June 15.

Bonus for Suitable Stock

The meeting last week in Regina, called by H. S. Arkel, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner, to discuss classification for summer prize lists and also regarding the stressing of certain breeds of stock that have been found to be particularly suitable to the different localities, was well attended. In the past, the West has not been very sure just which were the favorite breeds, as all were being tried out more or less experimentally.

In the prize lists, heretofore, Shorthorns, for instance with large entries from many different owners, did not get any more encouragement in the way of prize money than Jerseys, Ayreshires, Galloways or other less popular cattle, of which there might be only one exhibitor. The same was true of sheep, swine and to a certain extent of horses.

However, the time has arrived when certain breeds are demonstrating their special suitability to the conditions of the district, and the Government is of the opinion that the prize lists should reflect these results.

The conference was attended by the deputy Ministers of Agriculture of the Western Provinces, the Live Stock Commissioners and the fair managers of a Circuit, and the matter in connection with the issuing of prize lists for the summer fairs was fully discussed.

Ear Tags for Marketing Hogs

Ear tags for marking hogs in co-operative shippings which are made to stock yards or abattoirs have now been issued by the Dominion government and may be obtained in Alberta from N. Curtis, Dominion markets representative. The cost of the tags is $2.60 per 100, and a special punch which is necessary to affix the tag is $1 to $2, according to the finish.

Identification of individual farmer's hogs at marketing points for purposes of identification was a part of the grading policy in order that farmers producing the select bacon hog might receive the premium which was agreed on for this particular grade.

The tags are available in lots of 100 for each serial number and each farmer, as applications are received, is assigned a number so there can be no irregularity about the identification of his hogs when shipped to market. When a lot of tags are exhausted the farmer on application, will be furnished with another lot of tags bearing the same serial number as the first lot assigned to him.

The tagging of hogs provides a definite means of checking the ownership of hogs through to the market and farmers who are producing the select bacon hog should know to it that their hogs are marked for identification. The premium on one select bacon hog will go a long way to paying the entire cost of the tags and the farmer who tags his hogs has the satisfaction of knowing the actual grading of his pen of hogs when marketed and this information will provide information valuable in that he knows definitely whether he should improve his breeding and look more closely to his methods of feeding.

Alta. Steers to Old Country.

Immediately after the British embargo is removed on Canadian live cattle on April 1st this year the provincial department of agriculture will send a train load of specially fed steers across the Atlantic to ascertain what conditions will have to be met in such shipments and what can be realized in the way of profits in exportation of this nature to the British market, says Hon. George Hoadley, that this was in accord with the government's policy of assisting co-operative marketing enterprises. Approximately 242 head of steers are now being fed on the government demonstration farms, from which will be selected good animals to send across in the experimental shipment. Other steers will be obtained from stockmen in the province.

The experiment will do much to settle the question of type, regulations and other matters in connection with exportations to the live cattle market in Britain.

THIS MAN TELLS YOU HOW TO KEEP FIT!

Dear Ricer, N. S.—My back was so bad I could hardly work. I was always tired out and had no ambition; was nervous and dizzy, and everything seemed to worry me. I also had terrible pains in my right side. I felt badly for about eighteen months and could not do my work as it should have been. I tried several doctors, and also bought about $25.00 worth of put up medicine, but I found no relief. I then took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Doctor Pierce's Anemic (anti-uric acid) Tablets. I have taken two bottles of the Discovery, and four of the Anemic Tablets, and can say that I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years. I advise any sufferer to give Dr. Pierce's medicines a fair trial. I can now recommend them too highly for what they have done for me and shall be pleased to answer any one who cares to write me.—Norman E. Trimper, N. Y.

McGill Students Organize to Oppose

One Couple's Wives

Twenty stony young males have banded themselves to bar cupid from McGill University, and have formed a protective society for the welfare of single students. Its members solemnly pledge themselves never to marry college women. The society declares itself absolutely necessary for protection of the younger men in college as embryo judges, prime ministers, bishops, authors, fellows of the Royal Society, and others, all eager to scale the height of fame. ## THE TONIC THAT GIVES STRENGTH

Now is the Time to Invigorate Your System and Throw Off Winter's Ills

An unusually trying winter is almost over, but the spring will find many whose strength has been sapped and systems undermined by winter colds, influenza, pneumonia or close confinement indoors. Recovery from this condition is often slow, but it can be hastened by the use of a true tonic medicine. Strength and energy can be restored, the stomach tuned up, headaches banished and nervousness overcome through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have a direct action on the blood, enriching and purifying it, thus bringing new strength to every organ and fibre in the body. In this way this medicine has brought new health to thousands of weak and despondent people. Among those who owe their present health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. Charles E. Minter, Chapman's Brook, N.S., who says: "I had a very severe attack of influenza, but after the characteristic cough and fever that trouble had passed, I was left in a very weak and depressed condition. I could not keep on my feet for half an hour at a time, and words can scarcely tell how badly I did feel. I had been taking the medicine my doctor gave me, but it was not helping me, and as I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on a former occasion with great benefit, I decided to try them again. I got half a dozen boxes, and soon after beginning their use, I could 'feel' my strength returning. By the time I had used up my supply of pills, my old-time strength had come back, and I could do my household work and keep on my feet all day without feeling used up as formerly. I feel that these pills have been worth their weight in gold to me, and I strongly recommend them to other weak, run down people."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, postpaid, at five a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mapping Timber From the Air

By This Method Value of Timber Can Be Estimated Quickly

Important progress has been made during the past year in the development of forest type mapping from the air in British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec much work of this nature has been done from the Air Force Stations.

Topographical detail not shown on existing maps is first sketched in from the air on a map and the forest types are then added.

The importance of this work cannot be over-estimated as it enables those responsible for the forests to gain reliable information regarding districts of which practically nothing is known today. The value of the timber can be estimated quickly and easily, and lumbering operations are greatly facilitated by means of the additional information made available.

During January, however, Canada's purchases in the United States totalled her sales to that country by nearly $19,000,000, the total of American goods imported being $49,142,953, as against $33,508,444 in January of last year.

Smuggling In Russia

Soap and Perfume in Great Demand By the Bolsheviks

Smuggling has increased to such an extent along Russia's western frontier of late that observers estimate more goods are being smuggled into the trade. Many dealers object to doing business through the Soviet foreign trade department on the ground that because of the government "red tape," months are required before orders are filled.

Communist principles still hold in questions of foreign trade, and Moscow and Petrograd business men contend that because of the difficulties encountered in bringing goods into Russia, through legitimate ways, regular routes for smuggling have been established and have been working smoothly for many months. The Soviets have been guarding the frontiers for months far more rigidly than previously, but despite the watchful methods the smuggling has been increasing by leaps and bounds.

The practice pays handsomely because of the extraordinary demands in Moscow, Petrograd and other Russian cities for luxuries, particularly perfumes, soap and other toilet articles, which retail at five or six times, or even more, over the original purchasing price.

Stony Plain Town Council.

Stony Plain Town Council held its regular meeting on Thursday last, March 22, with the Mayor, and all the Councillors but Jacob Miller present.

A delegation of well-borners headed by Mr Stanley interviewed the Council regarding leasing boring a well on town property. Mr Stanley was asked to put his proposition in writing, and forward same to the Town Secretary.

A number of accounts were passed and ordered paid.

When the fire engine question was broached, it appeared as if something was about to commence to begin; and it may be stated for almost a certainty that there is a strong probability, barring accidents, that the town may shortly be the proud possessor of an apparatus for fire protection. The proposition made by a representative of the Bickle Engine Co. received favorable attention; and, after some discussion as to size of hose required, 2" or 2½", which would be suitable for the town, the proposition passed Council practically unanimous that the Bickle people be allowed to give a demonstration of its outfit, and if it proves satisfactory, that same be purchased. The outfit consists of an engine capable of pumping upwards of 200 gallons a minute; 500 feet of hose, and a reel for same; the total sum for which will amount to about $2300.

An account from an Edmonton hospital for services rendered a local man, was up for discussion; and the matter was left in the hands of a special committee.

Of course, Mr Ashcan was on the boards; and this matter was again given the once-over, the Secretary being instructed to send a warning to those in the fire limits not conforming with the town's bylaw.
